We note that the Eustace, which cleared from Sar Francisco for Kahului, on the 28th of July, had a cargo valued at $4,923.04. The principal items were beef, (sait, in bbls) lumber, and, strange to say, rice, of which article the Maui folks import by the Eustace 23,250 lbs. MR. EDITOR :- What would you? License the sale of opium? No! Is there not misery enough now among the poor natives without opening the door to more? Have they not their share of trouble in the various diseases which their poor flesh seems to be heir to without s ill further assisting by licensing the introduction and sale of this dreadful drug, in their deterioration and destruction? What! We, who claim to be civilized and Christians do that which the heathen upon our soil have fought against and whose actions if not sprempted by humane motives were at least urged onward by the instinct of that first law of nature, self-preservation. Ask the Chinese merchants of this city what will become of the labor which we have risked and paid so much to obtain, if the introduction of this enervating drug obtained a lawful sanction. What would they tell you? They would say that, if not entire ruin, it would entail heavy losses in the time of their help employed on our plantations, and time with planters means money. Ask our officers of the law, whose acquaintance with the workings and effects of this debilitating drug enables them to say in plain terms that the sale of opium licensed is but opening the door to poverty and crime and sending us backward instead of forward in our Christian endeavors to benefit our fellowmen. No, rather let the old law remain and place competent officers in the customs department to carry out its requirements. No tampering with the health and happiness of may be thousands for the pitiful sum obtainable by licensing. PRO BONO PUBLICO.

(From the San Francisco Merchant, July 11.) Exports to Hawaii.

Before the ratification of the Hawaiian Reciprocity Treaty payment for raw sugars was almost a dead outlay. We had, it is true, a small export trade to the Hawaiian Islands, but hardly to the Philippine Archipelago. Last year, however, (1878), we exported a little over $600,000 to the Hawaiian Islands, consisting chiefly of California produce and California manufactures. In the first half of the current year we have exported to the Islands nearly $1,000,000, with every probability of the total sum for the year reaching over $2,000,000, or between three and four times the business of last year, and ten times what it was before the treaty was made. The custom house figures show:-$156,989:00

124,749 06 125,291 00

The exports, as the manifests published weekly in the Merchant show, consist chiefly of animals, alcohol, barley, bread, bricks, building material, bacon, beef, butter. castor oil, cheese, China oil, canned goods, corn, coals, cordage, corks, drugs, dried fruit, fish, flour, feed, eggs, gin, bams, hay, fron, lard, leather, linseed oil, lumber, milk, oats, paints, potatoes, pork, posts, rice, salmon, shingles, soap, spirits, tobacco, wine, miscellaneous groceries, hardware, dry goods, railroad material and machinery. Three-fourths or more consist of California produce and California manufactures, and less than onefourth of Eastern made goods or imported merchandise. The treaty has done already more for California than its The treaty has done already more for California than its most sanguine promoters expected in so short time. Instead of paying cash we are buying our raw sugar largely with the produce of our farms and our local manufactures. Instead of the treaty being sided, as was argued by a few jealous or short sighted individuals, it is working largely for the benefit of California. It is giving us chesper sugar, which again benefits our fruit-preserving industries and enables them better to compete at home and abroad with their rivals; it makes steady and resmungrative employment for our coasting fleet, and it is furnishing a paying market for that which we grow and manufacturing matter that which we grow and manufactures. While a freaty with a manufacturing nation like France would be hurtful if not ruinous to our nation like France would be hurtful if not ruinous to our nation like France would be furtiful if not ruinous to our nation industries, treaties of reciprocity with countries furnishing us raw, tropical produce and having no local furnishing are are decidedly beneficial not only to consumers and shipping, but to our farmers and manufacturers.

THE PACIFIC Commercial Advertiser.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 16. THE Pacific Mail Company have just granted to passengers, who purchase through tickets from San Francisco to Sydney and vice versa, the privilege of remaining at Honolulu for a time within the limitation of that for which the through trip ticket holds good, viz., any time within nine months. This certainly is a concesslan that the traveling public will avail themselves of, as by so doing, they are enabled to stop over and view the wonders and beauties of Hawaii nei, and continue their journey, when

THE STEAMER from San Francisco on Monday brought a large list of cabin passengers for this port, numbering about fifty, and including, besides several returned Islanders and their families, some California notabilities. We note the names of the Hon. W. M. Gwinn, formerly U. S. Senator; Hon. W. Money, Representative from Mississippi; Hon. F. F. Low, ex-Governor of California and now President of the Anglo-California Bank; Hon. F. McCoppin, ex-Mayor of San Francisco; W. H. Dimond, Esq., of the well-known house of Williams, Blanchard & Co., and others. We trust that these visitors will find our climate and our society so agreeable that many others may be induced to follow their example. Our facilities for inter-island travel are good, and our volcano is in excellent condition to be interviewed.

AN ARTICLE from the commercial columns the San Francisco Alta California, of July 9. which will be found elsewhere in to-day's issue, deserves a thoughtful perusal. The Hawaiian Treaty of Reciprocity has not heretofore been considered in connection with the Chinese. But here the subject matter is very plainly set before us. Uncle Sam gives reciprocity-a ticklish gift, for the reason that other countries may quote the precedent-because he looks upon Hawaii as a protege and wants to encourage s struggling semi-Anglo Saxon community, christianized and civilized through American benevolence and enterprise. But when he finds that a large proportion of the benefits proposed to be conferred, are, by a peculiar condition of affairs here, going directly into the non-assimilating race that now constitutes an enigma for himself to explain, Uncle Sam may pause about extending our treaty beyond the time prescribed. Seriously, we believe that the greatest danger to us lies in this Chinese question. Let our statesmen lock to it. " Penny wise and pound foolish," is a venerable saying. A quotation from "Truthful James" may yet be applicable to us. "We are ruined by Chinese cheap labor."

WE ARE pleased to note that our government officials are inclined to maintain and in fact enhance the historical Hawaiian reputation for hospitality to strangers. On Tuesday next, as we are authoritatively informed, the steamer Lakelike will leave for the Circuit of Hawaii at 4 o'clock P. M., (instead of 5, as usual,) and His Excellency the Minister of the Interior will take as guests the Hon. Mr. Money and wife : Governor Low : Mayor McCoppin; Senator Gwin and daughter. The latter with Mr. J. D. Spreckles, will land at Maui, while the other excursionists will proceed on to Hilo, where they will arrive at an early hour on Thursday. Without delay they will proceed to the volcano on horseback, spending the wight on the brink of that great seventh wonder of the world-a visit to which entitles one to boast over his fellow men ;-on Friday morning the party will leave the breezy heights of Kilauea for the seaport of Keauhou, where the steamer from Hilo will take them on board. Thence they will coast around Kau and Kona, arriving at Ma hukona in Kohala, at daylight on Saturday. Here there will be conveyances in readiness to take them through that fine district, and back again to the landing by noon, where they will re-embark and reach Maalaea at sundown. Our guests will remain on Maui until Wednesday, when the steamer Lehua will call for and return them to Honolulu on Thursday morning. This is dispatch in inter-island travel that has never been equalled before.

THE DEPTH of profundity displayed by the editor of the-" Ob no, we never mention it "hebdomadal printed over the Post Office, is something really startling in its mysterious obscurity. We have tried to comprehend the meaning of the writer, but utterly failed in arriving at anything tangible. And so we have to confess, that with our present light, we are not satisfied with the plan suggested for raising the wind. WE like the certificates of deposite of the Treasury Department, simply for the reason that we believe the coin is stored, dollar for dollar, for the paper. But if we, (and that comprehends the public at large) were veraciously informed that the paper dollar issued by the Treasury was bucked by only a half a dollar in coin, we should not put the paper dollar by as a safe deposit, but we should go and have it cashed at once-with no regrets for the other man who might afterwards come for the balf-dollar that was not there. And when it is suggested by the financial wiseacre aloresaid that his friend the Chinaman would be compelled to take the proposed " post notes" for his labor and thus save the coin to the country, he underrates the sagacity of his Mongolian brother, for John knows, if the editor in question does not, that neither certificates of deposite nor post notes, are legal tender, and that for them he could demand coin. John would be very likely to do so. But the writer under review is not the first one who has essayed short cuts to affluence, and will not be the last. His residence in the United States, where currency has for years been a " mixed quantity" and a vexed question for statesmen, has evidently failed to fit him for the post of boss financier for the Hawaiian Kingdom. WE like a coin basis, and the coins (especially the gold ones) of the United States suit us very well. But if this profound financier must have a paper currency, we suggest that he invest in the twenty-five cent, fifty cent, and one dollar revenue stamps. That ought to be a good fractional currency. In fact there are stamps of the denomination of five and ten dollars, that will fill the aching void and make him happy. Besides, stamps are made so as to stick, share " for the expense of protection; and this which ought to be a disideratum with some people. In concluding our reference last week to the condition of the money market, we suggested that our people generally had been somewhat extravagant in the past, and that this would constitute one cause for the present inconvenience in of the person affected by it. money matters But it may with justice be added, in this connection, that to a very serious quirements. They have apparently jumped at property owner should be and generally is, willing to the conclusion that we have become suddenly pay "his proportional share" upon his property, rich and prosperous, and so they have poured upon us a succession of cargoes of goods of all sorts, quite beyond our requirements, and, it may be added, beyond our ability to pay for. These goods are generally consigned by the months credit, and, in these times, the inevitable 'extensions," and eventually the consignment is closed out at auction, again on time to the trade. We suspect that sometimes a "Flemish account " is the result of these consignments of goods to an already over-stocked market. The consignor of course expects and presses for remittances from the Honolulu consignee, which he is able to make only partially and after long delays, for the coin is not here with which to buy exchange, and moreover the exchange is not to be had were the coin in hand. Thus it will be seen that much of the blame for importations beyond the needs and the means of the country must be laid to the account of the foreign merchants, who, in spite of repeated warnings from here, have insisted upon crowding our market so inclined, without extra expense regarding with goods on consignment. If they lose, as many will no doubt in the end, they will have themselves to thank. A recent issue of the S. F. Commercial Herald has the following pertinent Attention is called to the very heavy line of exports go ing forward of late to the Sandwich Islands, consisting of assorted goods, wares, merchandise and machinery. Conservative merchants of long standing in the trade inorm us that they do not understand it, and that there nust ere long be a reaction, that the traffic is being over done, and that the limited population of the Islands can not possibly consume all the goods now going in that di-rection. The Kalakaua for Honolulu carried a general cargo valued at $13,341. Our total exports to the Islands for the past six months aggregated upwards of $950,000, which shows a very considerable increase over any previous like period. Of course we know that much of this is machinery, etc., looking forward to a very large increase in the production of Sugar, Rice, and Coffee at the slands within the next two or three years. Last week Islands within the next two or three years. Last week we called attention to the large increase of Sugar and Rice imports from the Sandwich Islands during the past six months as compared with the same period of last year and previously. Thus far the Hawaiian Reciprocity Treaty seems to be working for the good of the Islanders as well as for the people of this Coast. It certainly gives

Our Island people were always liberal consumers of foreign goods in ante-reciprocity times, but it is beyond reason to suppose that we should, even under the stimulating effects of the treaty, more than double our consumption of foreign goods in a single year. This is however what the figures would apparently show. From San Francisco alone we imported in value, (including treasure) during the six months ending June 30, the sum of $1,007,665, being about double the amount for the preceding six months. This is exclusive of the sum of $71,724.30, the invoice value of our importations from Oregon and Washington Territory during the same period, which were mostly lumber and salmon. Add to these figures the approximate value of imports this year from Eastern U. S. ports up to June 30, of which was dutiable $17,093, and free by Treaty, $160,762.26, and from Europe during the same period to the value of say $285,000,and we have a sum total of imports into this little Kingdom during the first six months of 1879 of $1,542,244. Our exports of domestic products for the same period amounted in value to $1,834,497, so that all we can place to the credit side is the difference between these two sums, which only amounts to $292,253. These figures are reliable, and will prove of value for future reference. This sum of less than $300, 000 to our credit for six months work on a capital of say eight or ten millions invested in sugar and rice, sounds very small. And it will be still further decreased, and in fact more than expense swallowed up, when we deduct therefrom, as we must, for freight and insurance on cargoes, passage money between here and California and the East, premiums paid on life, fire and marine insurance, the advances paid to laborers on plantations, (a great deal of which, especially in the case of Chinese, goes abroad), and the money we have paid to California for steamers and schooners for our inter-island trade. Taking all these items into account and others that might be mentioned, it will be found that there is a large balance against us. In view of all these undoubted facts, there is cause for grave consideration, and attention to the Italian proverb-" Make baste slowly."

To the Editor of the Pacific Commercial Advertiser: SIR :- Reasonable taxation for the support of all governments is an undeniable necessity and right; but it is conceded by all, that taxation should be no more than the economical administration of the government requires, and that the assessment should be as equable as possible, and both the assessment and collection should be made no more onerous and annoying to the tax-payers than seems absolutely necessary.

The question never should be, how far will the law allow any system of taxation to go, if it is annoying to the tax-payer, but how can the officers of the law discharge their duties to the government with fidelity and the least annoyance to the tax-payers. The Hawaiian Constitution contemplates that the mposition of taxes for national necessities should be equally distributed or apportioned pro rata on all property, of all persons, excepting only where certain persons or property are for reasons especially exempted. What is property? For purposes of assessment, certainly, property is what a person may own by valid title, (whether it be personal or real,) free from all incumbrance, or which is not justly holden for debts due to any other person or party. If A. has $10,000 cash and owes nobody, he should be assessed for $10,000 of property. If he owes B. $5,000, then he has but $5,000 property, though he $5,000 and B, who holds a claim on him for $5,000, should pay the tax on the $5,000 due him from A. If the $10,000 should be in land and B. has a mortgage upon the land for $5,000, then the mortgage should be deducted and each pay taxes on the $5,000 as before. If it be said that the law does not permit the deduction of the mortgage from the real estate and the owner or possesser must pay on the $10,000 of real property, if the same law calls also for a tax on B's $5,000 claim, be it mortgage or not, then the law conflicts with the Constitutional principle of equality, for the $10,000 of property is taxed for $15,000, or $10,000 to the real estate possessor, without respect to his incumbrance. In other words, he is taxed twice as much as he is worth, and the note or other evidence of debt is taxed to the bolder or creditor. This is double taxation, contrary to the impartial equities of the Constitution, and as I understand, to the principle involved in the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of taxing shares in a corporation, when the taxes had been paid by the corporation. Article 14th of the Constitution says: " Each member of society has a right to be protected by it (the Government) in the enjoyment of his life, liberty and property, according to law, and therefore he shall be obliged to contribute his proportional share to the expense of this protection " Any construction of a statute which involves the double taxation of property cannot be in harmony with the above provision of the Constitution, for the property taxed is made to pay more than its " proportional seems to me plainly to harmonize with the judgment of the Court before mentioned. And that decision is clearly just, and any law not in harmony with this provision, is clearly enough opposed to it, and any construction of a law nullifying in its operation this equitable principle of the Constitution is in reality a violation of the Constitutional rights Taxation is necessary. It is the right of the government to impose it, as far as its necessities demand, extent our mercantile correspondents in other in conformity with the Constitution, both on persons countries are to blame for the present condition | and property; but it is expedient, and not contrary of affairs. They seem to have entirely misun- to the intent of the law, to make it as little onerous derstood the Island community, its size and re- and annoying to the tax-payer as possible. Every and his property is, what he has a right to after all his debts are paid, and there are very few men in the kingdom who will not honestly and conscientiously render a just account of the value of their property and cheerfully pay their "proportional share" of taxes. Thus it was, for more than a score of years shipper in England or the United States to some in this kingdom, and in no country have taxes been commission house in Honolulu, which of course, assessed and collected with less annoyance, and felt being desirous of making a good return, gets the | burden to the tax-payers than in these islands; and best terms obtainable. This means selling to the been defrauded of its dues, yet the returns have been retailer or the country merchant on a three regarded usually, by those well informed, as honest and just. Undoubtedly the loss from dishonest returns has been no greater than where the process is more inquisitorial and stringent.

The requisition that a schedule of debts, how much, and to whom due, should be filed with the assessor, does not appear to me to be called for. It is a new measure and annoying to tax-payers of all classes, I judge, from the manner in which it is spoken of. I have heard many remarks about it but pone in its favor. If it he said no honest man can object to it, I reply, that honest men do object to it; that all men object to laying open their private af-fairs, even to the officers of the law. They do not do it willingly. Officers are men (though I believe ours to be good men), yet being men they are liable to all the prejudices, infirmities, faults and I may add, corruptions of men; though I should be greatly surprised and would not willingly believe such charges as have too often been proven against public officers in other lands. But there is no man so honest that he does not choose to be the depository of his own business affairs. If there is reason to think a man is trying to defraud, let his case be investigated, but let not a general rule be promulgated, which treats all to whom it applies as dishonest, and is annoying to all by its inquisitorial character. No doubt many honest men will prefer to pay their taxes without the deduction of debts, to which they are entitled, rather than put the details of their own private business into the hands of any law officer; but they will not feel it the less unjust or the requisition any more necessary or judicious. The rule is a new one and unpopular, and by many certainly thought to be unnecessary A TAX-PAYER. Respectfully yours,
